The first page of the document is written in Maldivian language. The content appears to discuss a coalition for integrity in the Maldives, with various dates and names mentioned, possibly indicating a report or statement of some sort. The text is dense with details and may include statistical or programmatic information relevant to the coalition's objectives.

This document is likely intended for an audience familiar with the Maldivian language and the context of transparency and integrity initiatives in the region.